

DAQ9L Executive Summary

OBJECTIVES:

To study the response of cotton to varying nitrogen rates and times and methods of application under different irrigation strategies.

To demonstrate to cotton growers under commercial conditions the importance of irrigation and nitrogen management of their crops.

To obtain preliminary information on the effect of previous crop on cotton response to applied nitrogen.